Das Gebot "Liebe deinen Nächsten wie dich selbst" ist die stärkste Abwehr der menschlichen Aggression und ein ausgezeichnetes Beispiel für das unpsychologische Vorgehen des Kultur-Über-Ichs. Das Gebot ist undurchführbar; eine so großartige Inflation der Liebe kann nur deren Wert herabsetzen, nicht die Not beseitigen. [...] Wie gewaltig muß das Kulturhindernis der Aggression sein, wenn die Abwehr derselben ebenso unglücklich machen kann wie die Aggression selbst!

—Freud, Das Unbehagen in der Kultur, VIII (1930)

The commandment, 'Love thy neighbor as thyself', is the strongest defense against human aggressiveness and an excellent example of the unpsychological proceedings of the cultural super-ego. The commandment is impossible to fulfil; such an enormous inflation of love can only lower its value, not get rid of the difficulty. [...] What a potent obstacle to civilization aggressiveness must be, if the defense against it can cause as much unhappiness as aggressiveness itself!

—Freud, Civilization and its Discontents, section VIII
(p. 143, Vol. XXI, Standard Edition)

La question du désir reste au premier plan des préoccupations des pouvoirs, je veux dire qu'il faut bien qu'il y ait quelque manière sociale et collective de to manage avec lui. Cela n'est pas plus commode de ce côté-ci d'un certain rideau que de l'autre. Il s'agit toujours de tempérer un certain malaise, le Malaise dans la culture comme l'a appelé Freud. Il n'y a pas d'autre malaise dans la culture que le malaise du désir.

—Jacques Lacan, Le Séminaire. Livre VI. Le désir et son interprétation, 1958-59. Leçon 23, 3 juin 1959.

The question of desire remains at the forefront of the concerns of the powers, I mean that there must be some social and collective way to manage with it. It is no more convenient on this side of a certain curtain than on the other. It is always a question of tempering a certain discontent, Civilization and Its Discontents as Freud called it. There is no other discontent in civilization than the discontent of desire.

—Lacan, Seminar VI, Desire and Its Interpretation, 1958-59, class 23, June 3, 1959.

Segregation Yesterday and Today

Alain Vanier

Thursday, January 18, 2018 · 6:30 PM – 8:30 PM

Friday, January 19, 2018 · 6:30 PM – 8:30 PM

Separations have always served to organize the social space of groups and societies, colonizers and colonized. But today there exists a new, all-pervasive kind of segregation, as Lacan observed. We will examine his reflection on this as well as that of other analysts, in particular Maud Mannoni's work on the segregation of the mad, children, the elderly and women.

SUGGESTED READINGS: Freud: "Why war?" (1933). Lacan: "Proposition du 9 Octobre 1967" (1ère/1st version); "Discours de clôture des Journées sur les psychoses" (Address on Child Psychosis, Oct. 22, 1967); Seminar XVII, The Other Side of Psychoanalysis, 1969–70. Mannoni, Maud: Le psychiatre, son fou et la psychanalyse; Le nommé et l'innommable, le dernier mot de la vie; Elles ne savent pas ce qu'elles disent.

The Subject of Politics

Isidoro Vegh

Friday, June 22, 2018 · 6:30 PM – 9:00 PM

Lacan stated that "the unconscious is the political" and that "the symptom establishes the order whereby our politics is revealed." This presentation will address the question, "What is politics for psychoanalysts?"

Discussion

On Formation

Sunday, September 24, 2017

4:00 PM – 6:00 PM

What are the differences that distinguish the formation of the analyst from analytic training? How is it possible to protect a singular trajectory in the current psychoanalytic landscape? Isn't the formation of the analyst the outcome of formations of the unconscious?

Please join us for a conversation of these questions—and many others—with drinks and refreshments. We look forward to an open discussion of the crucial issues facing those of us concerned with psychoanalysis today, as well as its future.

Book Presentation

The Three Times of the Law [Les trois temps de la loi]

Alain Didier-Weill

Translated by Andrew Weller, Agincourt Press, The Seahorse Imprint, 2017

Saturday, December 16, 2017 · 10:30 AM - 1:00 PM

With the participation of:

Marco Antonio Coutinho Jorge, Mark Stafford, Jean-Michel Vives, Martin Winn

By exploring the uncanny division the subject experiences in its relation to the unconscious, this book proposes a radically novel approach to the enigma of the super-ego, one of the most relevant and least developed aspects of analytic practice. Continuing a private dialogue with Lacan (who saw fit to make it public in his last seminars) and articulating the relation between invocatory drives and music, dance and painting, The Three Times of the Law, first published in 1995, has been reprinted many times and has become a classic in France and South America.

MEETING PLACE: The presentation will take place at The School of Visual Arts, 136 West 21st Street (between Sixth and Seventh Avenues), New York City. Please ask at the front desk for the room number.

ATTENDANCE FEE: Attendance is free and open to the public.

Seminar

On the Subject's Relation to Knowledge

Paola Mieli

Returning to Freud and Lacan, this seminar will reflect on the function that knowledge and belief play in the subject's relation to the world. Denial, disavowal, foreclosure—and their subjective and collective implications—will be explored, as well as the differences between unconscious and conscious knowledge, between savoir, connaissance and savoir faire. The vicissitudes of knowledge in the trajectory of the cure and at the end of an analysis will be addressed, both on the side of the analysand and that of the analyst.

The meetings will take place from 6:30 PM to 8:30 PM on the following Fridays: January 26, February 16, March 9, April 6, May 4, 2018.

Please check dates on our website, as changes may occur.

Each meeting will include a discussion of specific readings, which will be decided meeting by meeting and posted on our website.

MEETING PLACE: The School of Visual Arts, 136 West 21st Street (between Sixth and Seventh Avenues), New York City. Please ask at the front desk for the room number.

Workshops

On Sublimation

Erik Porge

Friday, February 23, 2018 · 6:30 PM – 9:00 PM

Saturday, February 24, 2018 · 10:30 AM – 2:00 PM

Continuing our investigations of sublimation in the clinic, we will focus on the analyst's practice. Sublimation has to do with the analyst's savoir-faire, yet should not be confused with what we call the analyst's desire.

SUGGESTED READINGS: Lacan: Preface to the English-language edition of Seminar XI, The Four Fundamental Concepts of Psychoanalysis (1976); "Conférence à Genève sur le symptôme" (1975, in Autres écrits); Seminars VI, Le désir et son interprétation, 1958-59 and XVI, D'un Autre à l'autre, 1968-69. Glover, Edward: "Sublimation, Substitution and Social Anxiety" (1931; lacanianworks.net).

Lacan and the English Language

Jean-Pierre Cléro

Friday, April 13, 2018 · 6:30 PM – 9:00 PM

Saturday, April 14, 2018 · 10:30 AM – 2:00 PM

Lacan's thesis "the unconscious is structured like a language" seems to contradict his further suggestion that certain languages are more apt than others for the practice and theory of psychoanalysis. We will focus on Lacan's relation to English elaborating the themes in Lacan et la Langue Anglaise (Cléro, Essaim, 2017), but also consider how he treats other languages to which he often refers—German, Greek, Latin, Hebrew—taking a close look at what in various languages is supposed to facilitate or prevent the expression of the unconscious, be it that of the analysand or of the theoretician of psychoanalysis.

SUGGESTED READINGS: Lacan: Seminars III, The Psychoses, 1955-56, class of May 9, 1956; VII, L'Éthique, 1959-60, p. 353 [class 23, section 2]. Porge, Erik: Le ravissement de Lacan, Paris, 2015; Guillaume, Gustave: Temps et verbe. Théorie des aspects, des modes et des temps, Paris, 1984. Fink, Bruce, in: Against Understanding. Commentary and Critique in a Lacanian Key, London and New York, 2014, vol. I: "A psychoanalytic ethics of translation."

MEETING PLACE: The School of Visual Arts, 136 West 21st Street (between Sixth and Seventh Avenues), New York City. Please ask at the front desk for the room number.

ATTENDANCE FEE FOR WORKSHOPS: $25 per session. For students with ID: $15 per session. Attendance is free for members of Après-Coup as well as for the faculty and students of the School of Visual Arts.

Workshops on Child Analysis

The Child Today: A Presentation and Round-Table Discussion

Speakers will include:

Christine Anzieu-Premereur, Olga Poznansky, Catherine Vanier, Lissa Weinstein

Saturday, January 20, 2018 · 10:30 AM – 3:00 PM

Children today find themselves faced with a new level of adult demands coming from the many professions—medical, legal and educational—called on to intervene as soon as children show signs of behavioral problems.

In addition, the media's constant dissemination of new discourses about the needs of children presents new challenges for the clinician working with them and their families. This round table will discuss and address some of those challenges.

On Bullying: A Psychoanalytic Reflection

Alba Flesler

Saturday, June 23, 2018 · 10:30 AM – 2:00 PM

What does the current phenomenon of bullying tell us about the symptoms and jouissances of wider current forms of violence? Drawing on clinical material we will question the causes of human violence in general and of bullying in particular, and why it occurs primarily in the school.

SUGGESTED READINGS: Lacan: Seminars XXII, R.S.I., 1974-75; XXV, The Moment to Conclude, 1977-78. Flesler, Alba: El Niño en Análisis y las Intervenciones del Analista, Ed. Paidós, Buenos Aires, 2011; "El Superyó del Niño y la Crueldad en la Escuela," Imago Agenda, Buenos Aires 2012; "Las Violencias: ¿Qué Hacemos con los Niños?" Actualidad Psicológica, Buenos Aires, marzo/March 2015.

MEETING PLACE: The School of Visual Arts, 136 West 21st Street (between Sixth and Seventh Avenues), New York City. Please ask at the front desk for the room number.

Study Groups

In Dark Times, Freud's and Ours

Salvatore F. Guido

In these dark times, “the light of the public obscures everything” (Heidegger). The refuge that psychoanalysis provided in Freud's time against the public exposure of everyday life is all the more crucial today given the encroachment of mediatised lives. This study group will explore writers who embark upon a journey of psychical emigration and travel through political landscapes. We will be particularly interested in the writings of exiles and extra-territorials such as Hannah Arendt, Joseph Roth and Norman Manea, as well as post-war French thinkers including Lacan, Derrida, Lyotard and Blanchot.

The first meeting will be held on Sunday, November 19, 2017 at 201 West 77th Street, 15D, New York, NY, time to be determined.

Those interested in participating should contact Salvatore F. Guido at sfrguido@gmail.com or (212) 229-0811.

Lacan Online Study Group: Dreams and Phantasm

Readings and discussions based on Lacan's Seminars

Just as the ego is sustained in a certain relation with the imaginary other, desire is sustained in relation with the phantasm (Lacan, Seminar VI, Desire and Its Interpretation). Freud's analysis of the dream of the dead father (“He was dead and did not know it”) and Ella Sharpe's analysis of the “barking dog” phantasm will guide us through this homology.

Conducted by Adriana Passini, this group will meet via “Go-to-Meeting” the first and third Wednesdays of the month, from 12:00 PM to 1:15 PM. The first meeting of the year will be on September 20, 2017.

Space is limited to seven participants, and registration is required.

Those interested in participating should contact Adriana Passini at adrianapassini@aol.com.

READINGS: Freud: “The Two Principles of Mental Functioning” (1911). Lacan: Seminar VI, Desire and Its Interpretation, 1958-59, classes 5 to 12. Sharpe, Ella: “Analysis of a Single Dream” (1937).

Please confirm each scheduled event by checking our website at www.apres-coup.org.

Jean-Pierre Cléro taught philosophy at the universities of Nanterre-Paris X and Rouen; now an emeritus professor, he gives occasional courses at SciencesPo (L’Institut d’études politiques) in Paris. A scholar of the notion of passion in Hume and other British authors since the 17th century, he has gradually, through constant recourse to mathematics and reading Lacan, shifted his investigations from a philosophy of affectivity to one of fictions. His books include La Philosophie des passions chez David Hume, Les Raisons de la fiction. Les philosophes et les mathématiques, Bentham. Philosophe de l’utilité, Y a-t-il une philosophie de Lacan?, Dictionnaire Lacan and Essai sur les fictions.

Guy Dana is a psychoanalyst and psychiatrist practicing in Paris. He directs the psychiatric services of the Hospital of Longjumeau. A member and a former president of the Cercle Freudien and a co-founder of Convergencia, he is the author of many articles on psychoanalysis and psychiatry and of the book Quelle politique pour la folie? Le suspense de Freud (2010).

Guillermina Díaz is a psychoanalyst practicing in Buenos Aires and Rosario, Argentina. As a faculty member of the Escuela Psicoanalítica Sigmund Freud-Rosario she gives an annual seminar on clinical work with teenagers, and is co-author of El tren de los adolescentes (Lumen).
